* Burned Jan. 29, 1902; reopened Jan. 23, 1905.
 † Burned Jan. 18, 1905; opened as day school Feb. 9, 1905; conducted as a day school last year.

One hundred and sixty-three day schools were actually in operation during the year, as against 146 in the year before. As two of the day schools in 1906, Green Bay and San Juan, were temporary day schools pending the completion of the boarding-school buildings, the total shows a gratifying increase in these important schools of 19, and none were abandoned during the year. The new schools are, 4 on the Colville Reservation, Wash.; 1 on Flathead and 3 on Fort Peck, Mont.; 1 on Fort Apache, Ariz.; 1 on Rosebud, S. Dak.; 1 each on Fort Totten and Standing Rock, N. Dak.; 1 on Warm Springs, Ore.; 2 on White Earth, and 1 on Nett Lake, Minn.; 1 on Omaha, Nebr.; 1 on Zuñi, N. Mex., and 1 at Navajo Springs, Colo. A number of new plants are now under consideration. The distribution and statistics of day schools are shown in the following table:
