he still holds. He resigned his office as president to take up his duties as manager, to which have been lately added those of secretary and treasurer. He is vice-president of the Farmers Exchange Bank and is also a director in that institution.

On March 10, 1876, Mr. Johnson was united in marriage to Miss Christine Christensen, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Christensen, pioneer settlers of Brown county. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are the parents of three children: Anna, a graduate of the Green Bay high school and also of the Oshkosh Normal School; Samuel, part owner of the Johnson Fish Company; and A. L. The family residence is at No. 1303 Cherry street and is a center of hospitality for the many friends of J. S. Johnson and his family.

Mr. Johnson takes very little part in local politics. He gives his allegiance to the republican party but prefers to devote his attention to his business affairs, which are of an absorbing nature. He is a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, is prominent in the affairs of the Ansgar Society, and is deeply interested in the Green Bay Commercial Club. In the course of his business career Mr. Johnson has gained for himself a reputation for honesty and fair dealing in all his commercial affairs. He has many friends in Green Bay and his life has been an example of true manhood and loyal citizenship.

DENNISON WHEELOCK.

Dennison Wheelock is one of the highly respected citizens of De Pere, where he is successfully engaged in the general practice of law. He was born June 14, 1871, on the Oneida Reservation in Brown county, Wisconsin, and is a son of James A. and Sophie Wheelock. His parents were Oneida Indians and born on the Oneida Indian Reservation in New York state. When the government moved the Oneida Indians to Wisconsin, they were among the members of their tribe which settled on the reservation in Brown county, Wisconsin.

Dennison Wheelock was reared in his parents home and at the age of fourteen years, in 1885, entered the Carlisle Indian School at Carlisle, Pennsylvania, where he completed the required course of studies and was graduated from that institution with the class of 1890. While a student there he was a major of a battalion and after his graduation he was engaged as the leader of the Carlisle Indian School Band, to which he gave his entire attention for seven or eight years. He spent ten years in the government employ as financial clerk of the school and in that capacity he traveled throughout the United States, gathering pupils and visiting the different Indian reservations for the benefit of the school. In 1907 he severed his connection with that institution and took up the study of law under John R. Miller, who was an attorney connected with the Dickinson School of Law of Carlisle, Pennsylvania. In July, 1911, he was admitted to the bar of Wisconsin by the supreme court of the state and immediately began the general practice of law at De Pere, where he has since continued to reside.

Mr. Wheelock was united in marriage in 1894, at Carlisle, Pennsylvania, to Miss Louise La Chapelle, a Chippewa Indian maiden of Minnesota, and they have become the parents of two children: Edmund W., born in 1896; and Louise, born in 1903. To Mr. Wheelock great credit is due for his achievements in the pursuit of knowledge and for the distinction of having successfully pursued his law course and received admission to the Wisconsin bar as an authorized and accredited attorney. His experience as a student and later as a government agent traveling throughout the country brought him in contact with all classes of people and served also to broaden his general knowledge.

A. L. THOMAS.

A. L. Thomas is one of Green Bay's successful men and has gained his present prominent position by his own efforts and energy. He came to America from his native country, Belgium, and built up his career here, despite the difficulties of mastering a new language and becoming accustomed to foreign ways, and he has gained his present position in the commercial world of Green Bay by his qualities of broad intelligence and well directed ambition. He is now sole owner of the Thomas Produce Company, located at 163 North Pearl street, Green Bay.

A. L. Thomas was born in Antwerp, September 25, 1867, and is a son of Francis and Hattie Borm Thomas, both of whom died in their native country and are buried there. Their son received his education in the public schools of Antwerp and crossed the Atlantic to America in 1887. He landed in New York city and came immediately to Fayette, Michigan, where he entered a country school for the purpose of learning the English language. He later worked in a blast furnace in Fayette for six months, and at the end of that period went to Seattle, Washington, where he was employed in a sawmill. In the same year he went to Oregon and located at Oswego, where he again entered a public school for the purpose of continuing his study of the English language. When he had attained a certain degree of proficiency in this tongue he took a position as clerk in a general store in Oswego where he remained until 1893. All during this period he pursued his studies as a pupil in the night school. After a short stay in Chicago, Illinois, during the World's Columbian Exposition, he came to Green Bay and obtained a position in a clothing store in this city. He remained in that line of activity only a short time, and, finding his duties distasteful, he left the clothing business to enter the employ of A. L. Platten, who was then operating a produce company. After three years of activity in the employ of Mr. Platten he started in business for himself along a similar line. He established a produce business, selling direct from the producer to the consumer in carload lots. In 1897 his success justified his opening a

Talks to Club Women about Indian Issues

Demaison Wheelock Gives Address Containing Dis- cussion of Land Treaties

Demaison Wheelock gave an interesting talk before members of the Green Bay Women's club yesterday on the "Indian Issue of Today". Mr.
Wheelock said that the Indian problem was ever before us and that the time had come when strenuous action must be taken to save the race from complete disintegration. He read & synopsis of the various Indian treaties entered into between the Red men and the White men, which specially declared that the Indians shall be fully protected by the United States and that land grants as contained in the treaties shall not be violated in the future.

Mr. Wheelock proceeded to show the various manners in which these treaties were violated by state governments, by individuals or just taken being purchased by state governments, by individuals or just taken by "squatters." In the case of the Pueblo Indians whose reservation is in New Mexico, Mr. Wheelock said, "This land had been given to the Pueblo Indians by the Spanish government long before the American government instituted the Indian reservation system. It later was confirmed by the Mexican government and along the only stream in the country. Little by little the men encroached and drove the Indians into smaller and smaller reservations."

Appals were made with final reached the senate through both legislature and a bill drawn up 1906 and contained 16 sections. The only thing the Indians wanted was their land, and it took sixteen sections on a bill to say that. And when the bill was read and passed by the senate, word reached the Indians that was to this effect, "that any man having occupied land prior to ten years the land. That was the sense of the bill that was supposed to be entirely acceptable to the Indians."

"At this point the Federation of Women's clubs sent into the fight and the bill went on further, but back to the Indian office. I think they were placed under suspicion of de-raiding the robes Red men. We are sure of victory now, that the issue is controlled by a political woman are in. And they will not lay down the fight and the men know it." Miss Phyllis Recke played several piano selections and Miss Janet Marshall sang two groups of Indian songs.
Both narrations were applauded as their offerings were exceptionally fine.

At the business meeting which preceded, Mrs. W. E. Cobby and Mrs. S.
D. Hinshaw, Sr., presided in the absence of the president and secretary.
Ballots were distributed on which the names of officers for the coming year are 12 in all. This is to give the membership of the club an idea of the sentiment of the club for their share to be presented at the March business meeting.
